Instructors/ Coaches

We request that you contact us to schedule an appointment before bringing your class to the Library. Scheduling a class allows us the opportunity to give optimal library service to our patrons and to check on available seating. When you schedule with us we are better equipped to answer questions in your subject area.

What is a Library Tour?

The tour is specialized to your class, a tour of our online catalog, a tour of our online databases, and a run through of general library services.

What is Library Research/ Study Hall?

When a faculty member brings his/her class to the library to work on projects, individually or in small groups. It often involves students working on computers or searching for a book or scholarly journal needed for class. This scheduled research time also includes study halls.

What you need to schedule...

When scheduling a tour, research, or study hall we request that you specify:

1. Is it a tour, research, or study hall?
2. Your name.
3. Name of the class.
4. How many students you are bringing?
5. Date and time that you are requesting.

Cautions

- Please note that the date you request for a tour or to do research may not be available due to staffing or hours. However, we will be as flexible as possible.
- The instructor/coach must be present for his/her allotted class/group time in the library.
- The Library staff is not responsible for students who are unattended by an instructor during their normal class period
- We do NOT offer tours on Friday due to limited services.
- We often place "Reserved" signs on the computers for either tour &/or research classes. Especially, on the occasions of more than one class using the Library.
- Some students may have received an introduction or tour of the library in another class; but all tours are NOT equal, depending on the past instructor, the class, depending on the time of the year, the type of research, changes in the library resources, changes in databases, and the possibility of forgetfulness of the researcher. Even if the past class is similar, repetition is wonderful for learning.

Examples of Specialized Tours:

Pre-Research Tour

Emphasis is on the basics of Library uses.

Library Section Tour

It is a walking tour of the LCC Library. Tour includes or may touch on the Reference, Fiction, Oversized, Non-fiction, Periodicals, Short Collections, Juvenile, Biography, and Index sections with a brief instruction on each area. Library instruction may cover:

- ID must be present to checkout
- ILL (Blue) and Magazine (Yellow) slips
- Brochure on the Library given to student.
- Explain REF; F; B; and J

This tour is also available on our library homepage by clicking "Student Resources" and then a "Library

LCC Library Catalog Tour

Each member of the class has the opportunity to sit at a computer and follow a guided tour of the online catalog. The students learn how to find a book, access their library account, view previous checkouts, place holds, make lists and access our catalog from off campus. This tour is also available on our library homepage click "Students Resources" and then click "Library Tutorials" on the left

LCC Periodical Database Tour

A brief guided tour of some of the periodical databases that are most commonly used. This tour also includes a general topic search, locating a PDF file or Full Text document, requesting periodicals, usage of indexes, showing the Periodical Holdings List, and rules of checkout for these materials. For more specific databases to be covered in your class tour, contact the LCC Library at extension 1167.
